

Dear Colleague(s),

We are now inviting and welcoming presentation proposals for the Politics of Race, Immigration, and Ethnicity Consortium (PRIEC) meeting at Arizona State University, to take place on Friday, January 19, 2024; the final time of day is to be determined but we anticipate the meeting to go from 9am-4pm (MST). The meeting will be in-person and is hosted by the Center for Latina/os and American Politics Research (CLAPR), in the School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) at ASU.

In addition to welcoming presentations across the range of issues commonly considered in this broad body of research, we also encourage proposals for research featuring or emphasizing institutions, governance, and public policy, focused on those concerns within and/or across the arenas (national, state, local; legislative, executive/bureaucratic, judicial, etc.) of the political system. Moreover, we also invite research that examines the issues from a comparative and/or transnational perspective that also encompass a focus on the U.S.

No formal paper is required, but please be sure to email your title and abstract to be considered for inclusion in this exciting program by Friday December 8, 2023 to weareprieec@gmail.com; please include “PRIEC Proposal” in the subject line of your message.

This is an ideal venue for sharing your research ideas at any stage. We generally highlight work by academic scholars, including social scientists across various disciplines, and from all ranks, including graduate students. At the same time, we are very open to presentations by policy practitioners and/or those who conduct community-engaged research. We welcome submissions from individuals in Arizona and beyond. Presentations are 10-12 minutes and we set aside time for comments and discussion.

Sincerely,

Rodney Hero, Francisco Pedraza, & Zenya Weatherall, along with Angie Bautista-Chavez, Irasema Coronado, Jose-Benito Rosales-Chavez, Matthew Dempsey, Aaron Flores, Nilda Flores-Gonzalez, Jennet Kirkpatrick, Angel Molina, Fabian Neuner, Mark Ramirez, Stella Rouse, Glenn Sheriff, and Kenicia Wright.
